The Housing Assistance Revolving Loan Fund was created in the Alaska Housing Finance Corporation (AHFC) at the time of the corporation's merger with the Alaska State Housing Authority. It was established to provide money for a rural assistance loan program for mortgages and for building materials or construction/renovation of small community housing.

November 2012
Code deactivated; no appropriations are made from the fund because it is within the AHFC, which does not report internal expenditures in the budget system.
